

Mediterranean Menu

+1 630-773-3955

1600 W Lake St #103A, Addison, IL 60101, United States

❖ Halal Style Bowls

Steak Bowl

Chicken Bowl

Kefta Bowl

Falafel Bowl

Gyro Bowl

❖ Pitas, Wraps & More

Steak Pita/Wrap

Chicken Kebab Pita / Wrap

Chicken Shawarma Pita/Wrap

Gyro Pita/Wrap

Lamb Kebab Pita/Wrap

❖ Mom's Homemade Chicken Dinner

Quarter Chicken

Half Chicken

Whole Chicken

❖ Platters

Grape Leaves

Vegetarian

❖ Salads

Mediterranean Salad

Jerusalem Salad

Fattoush Salad

Tabouleh Salad

❖ Kebobs

Chicken Kebob

Shrimp Kebob

Lamb Kebob

Pick Two Kebobs

All Three Kebobs

❖ Entrees

Halal Chops

❖ Appetizers & Sides

Baba Ghanoush + 1 Pita

Cucumber Yogurt Salad

Rice

Lentil Soup

Kibbeh

Mediterranean Menu offers a fresh and flavorful journey through Mediterranean favorites, from crispy Greek Fries and indulgent Loaded Shawarma Fries to satisfying Chicken Shawarma Pita and Wrap options. Hearty dishes like the Kefta Bowl and Lunch Special Beef Shawarma Plate provide filling choices, while the Hammus and Vegetarian Platter cater to lighter, vibrant tastes. Located at 1600 W Lake St #103A, Addison, IL, Mediterranean pairs welcoming service with a warm atmosphere, making it a great spot for a casual yet flavorful meal. Whether seeking a quick lunch or a leisurely dinner, this menu invites guests to enjoy thoughtfully prepared dishes that celebrate the richness of Mediterranean culinary traditions.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 13.5 million (15.5% of the population).

There are a number of reasons why the number of people aged 65 and over has increased. One of the main reasons is that people are living longer. The life expectancy at birth in the UK is now 77 years for men and 81 years for women. This is an increase of 12 years since 1950. The increase in life expectancy is due to a number of factors, including improvements in diet, hygiene, and medical care. The number of people aged 65 and over is also increasing because of the large number of people who have reached the age of 65 in the past few years. This is because of the large number of people who were born in the 1920s and 1930s.

The increase in the number of people aged 65 and over has a number of implications for society. One of the main implications is that there is a need for more social care services for the elderly.

There are a number of ways in which society can meet the needs of the elderly. One of the main ways is through the provision of social care services. These services can help the elderly to live independently and to maintain their quality of life.

There are a number of different types of social care services. These include home care services, residential care services, and day care services. Each of these services has its own advantages and disadvantages.

Home care services are provided in the elderly person's own home. These services can help the elderly to live independently and to maintain their quality of life. Home care services can include help with personal care, housework, and shopping.

Residential care services are provided in a care home. These services can help the elderly to live independently and to maintain their quality of life. Residential care services can include help with personal care, housework, and shopping.

Day care services are provided in a care home. These services can help the elderly to live independently and to maintain their quality of life. Day care services can include help with personal care, housework, and shopping.

The number of people aged 65 and over is expected to continue to increase in the future. This is because of the large number of people who are currently aged 65 and over and the fact that people are living longer.

There are a number of ways in which society can meet the needs of the elderly in the future. One of the main ways is through the provision of social care services. These services can help the elderly to live independently and to maintain their quality of life.

There are a number of different types of social care services. These include home care services, residential care services, and day care services. Each of these services has its own advantages and disadvantages.

Home care services are provided in the elderly person's own home. These services can help the elderly to live independently and to maintain their quality of life. Home care services can include help with personal care, housework, and shopping.

Residential care services are provided in a care home. These services can help the elderly to live independently and to maintain their quality of life. Residential care services can include help with personal care, housework, and shopping.

Day care services are provided in a care home. These services can help the elderly to live independently and to maintain their quality of life. Day care services can include help with personal care, housework, and shopping.

The number of people aged 65 and over is expected to continue to increase in the future. This is because of the large number of people who are currently aged 65 and over and the fact that people are living longer.

There are a number of ways in which society can meet the needs of the elderly in the future. One of the main ways is through the provision of social care services. These services can help the elderly to live independently and to maintain their quality of life.

There are a number of different types of social care services. These include home care services, residential care services, and day care services. Each of these services has its own advantages and disadvantages.

Home care services are provided in the elderly person's own home. These services can help the elderly to live independently and to maintain their quality of life. Home care services can include help with personal care, housework, and shopping.

Residential care services are provided in a care home. These services can help the elderly to live independently and to maintain their quality of life. Residential care services can include help with personal care, housework, and shopping.

Day care services are provided in a care home. These services can help the elderly to live independently and to maintain their quality of life. Day care services can include help with personal care, housework, and shopping.

The number of people aged 65 and over is expected to continue to increase in the future. This is because of the large number of people who are currently aged 65 and over and the fact that people are living longer.

There are a number of ways in which society can meet the needs of the elderly in the future. One of the main ways is through the provision of social care services. These services can help the elderly to live independently and to maintain their quality of life.

There are a number of different types of social care services. These include home care services, residential care services, and day care services. Each of these services has its own advantages and disadvantages.

Home care services are provided in the elderly person's own home. These services can help the elderly to live independently and to maintain their quality of life. Home care services can include help with personal care, housework, and shopping.

Residential care services are provided in a care home. These services can help the elderly to live independently and to maintain their quality of life. Residential care services can include help with personal care, housework, and shopping.

Day care services are provided in a care home. These services can help the elderly to live independently and to maintain their quality of life. Day care services can include help with personal care, housework, and shopping.